

Three genealogy charts that trace lineages of Queen Elizabeth II to the pre-Islamic Persian monarchs of the Sasanian Empire.

The name of each person and the further references below are links to the source information from genealogy or wiki websites.

PART 1:

Ancestry of Queen Elizabeth II from Ardashir I Papagan Sassanid, founder of the last Zoroastrian Persian dynasty to rule Iran. Yezdegird III, last Sassanid Emperor, King of Kings, has a daughter by the latinized name of Izdundad (probably Yazaddat/Yazaddad in Persian.)

She is married to the Jewish Exilarch (Prince in Exile) Bustanai Ben Haninai, and the genealogy line can be traced from their son, Sharijar Ben Bustani's daughter who marries another Jewish nobleman, Netronai Ben Nehemia. Their grandson is Count Theodoric of Toulouse (inheriting this title from his European mother) Theodoric's daughter is Raedburga, who married Edberg, King of the English kingdom of Wessex. Edberg unites all of England and is an ancestor of Queen Elizabeth II. For a full picture I am starting with Ardashir I founder of Sassanid Empire:

From William the Conqueror to Queen Elizabeth II refer the other genealogy chart.

PART 2:

One of the royal lineages of Queen Elizabeth II, from son/daughter to father/mother, partly patriachal and partly matriachal, leads back in time to the Persianized dynasty, the Chosroid dynasty of Iberia, with Mihrim III the first king of this dynasty. Mihram III is alleged to be descended from Shapur I, King of Kings of Iran. Mihrim III's biography in wikipedia confirms his family is a branch of the Arcasids /Parthians, and the link to Shapur is perhaps fabricated to gives his kingship importance, because in Mihrin's reign the Sassanians had become the all powerful Iranian rulers of ancient Middle East and upto the Punjab and Sind. In any case, Arcasids Parthians being the actual ancestors, the Chosroid dynasty has Persian origins, by extension so does Queen Elizabeth II.

From James I, King of England and his mother, Mary Queen of Scots, to Shapur I, it is an unbroken ascent, ie from James I and Mary Queen of Scots through Mary's great great grandmother of Royal House of Savoy, further back in time to Montferrat, then Palaiologus dynasty of Byzantine rulers, then royal houses of Bagratids of Ossetia, then royals of Georgia, then Armenia, then Iberia, eventually to Mihran, first king of the Chosroid dynasty of Iberia(Georgia) and alleged son of Shapur I .

From James I, I have used 2 to 3 genealogy web sites' links to confirm this genealogy. These links are fabpedigee.com, and added with references from Wikipedia, University of Hull genealogy website, Rootsweb.com, genealogy.com links.

At the end of this chart there is a link to Answers@yahoo.com where this pedigree is confirmed by another person. This genealogy traces relationships from Mihran III through a parallel line that connects with Prince Albert, Prince of Saxe Coburg Gotha, husband/consort of Queen Victoria!

What is more significant is, considering that almost all the royal families of Europe are related to one another, and the British Royal family and the thousands of individuals who move out of mainstream royalty, being descendants of junior branches of royal families, all these are naturally related to the Persian Sassanians and Arcacids!

If you wish to see details, hover mouse over each Name and, for genealogy from James I more referances are provided below each Name, right click, then click on "open hyperlink," and you will be taken to the web sites confirming these relationships.

(from Parsman VI below and his ancestors upto Mirhim III form the Chosroid (Khusroid) dynasty; the first ruler Mihram III is listed as son of Shapur in the fabpedigree.com, but other sources dispute this, but do agree that his lineage is from Persian-Arcasids Parthian descent. The dynasty is aptly called Cosroid dynasty.)

Parsman VI (King) of IBERIA(becomes king in 561AD) (here the ancestry to the Sasanians begins-Parsman is a descendant of Sahpur I through a junior son Mihran, the latter is first king of Iberia-ancient Georgia. This is disputed, but everyone agrees Mihran is of a dynasty which has roots in Arcasid Parthians, the predecessors of the Sassanians in Iran.)
